

UNIVERSITY OF DENVER GRADUATE SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK

FACULTY POSITIONS

Assistant Professors

Applications are invited for two tenure-track faculty positions for Fall 2016 at the rank of Assistant Professor. The Graduate School of Social Work (GSSW) at the University of Denver (DU) is seeking to expand our expertise in one or more of the following MSW concentrations: family systems interventions; health; global practice; child welfare; and mental health. We also welcome scholarly research in the areas of LGBTQ, Gender, and the Human-Animal Connection in support of the previously noted concentrations. GSSW seeks colleagues whose innovative ideas and research agenda support our mission of educating MSW and PhD students. GSSW and the University of Denver are committed to enhancing the diversity of faculty and staff. As such, we especially encourage people from historically underrepresented populations to apply. For more information about GSSW and DU, please visit www.du.edu/socialwork; the University's diversity statement can be found at www.du.edu/chancellor/vision/diversitystatement.html.

The Graduate School of Social Work is a community of scholars who conduct a range of research with diverse populations across the life cycle and who are committed to excellence in teaching. The School's curriculum, research, and community partnerships emphasize social and economic justice, along with an understanding of and respect for social, political, and cultural diversity. GSSW provides a collegial and supportive environment that fosters interdisciplinary research. The faculty at GSSW engages in major collaborative projects locally, nationally, and internationally. In addition, the Denver metropolitan area affords excellent opportunities for interdisciplinary research addressing a variety of populations.

Candidates must have an earned doctorate in social work or in a related social science discipline by September 1, 2016, an MSW degree, a developing research agenda and potential for excellence in teaching across the MSW curriculum. Two or more years of post-MSW practice experience is preferred. Candidates must demonstrate a commitment to research, scholarly publication, and preparation of research proposals for external funding.

Applicants should submit their curriculum vita, a letter that illustrates their interests and expertise in teaching and research, and two samples of written/published material in which the candidate contributed substantially to the writing and conceptualization of the manuscript to the University's online application system at the University of Denver website www.du.edu/hr/employment/jobs (only online applications can be considered). In addition, three letters of reference and (if available) teaching evaluations should be sent directly to:

James Herbert Williams, PhD
Dean and Milton Morris Endowed Chair
University of Denver
Graduate School of Social Work
Craig Hall 306
2148 S. High Street
Denver, CO 80208-7100

Applications will be reviewed beginning September 1, 2015, and will continue until the position is filled. Early application is advised. Position responsibilities will begin September 1, 2016.

The University of Denver (Colorado Seminary) is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Institution. It is the policy of the University not to discriminate in the admission of students, in the provision of services, or in employment, on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, marital or veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, or disability.