Position Title: Lecturer - Human Services

Requisition Number: FTFR000571
Division/College: College of Social Sciences and Humanities
To apply: https://neu.peopleadmin.com/postings/33097
Location: Boston Main Campus
Full-time/Part-time: Full Time
Benefits Eligible: Yes
Tenure Status: Non Tenure Track
Posting Date: 11/05/2014

Responsibilities
The Human Services Program of Northeastern University seeks to fill one benefits eligible full-time Lecturer position, beginning in September of 2015. We are seeking candidates with teaching and clinical experience in direct practice with individuals, families or groups. We are particularly interested in applicants who specialize in one or more of the following areas: global mental health, trauma informed therapies, and harm reduction practice. Candidates with an interest in leading global experiential education programs during summer months are strongly encouraged to apply. Course load for this position is 6 courses, fall and spring.

Qualifications
PhD degree in Social Work, Psychology or related field is required at the time of appointment. Evidence of clinical licensure required. Evidence of effective teaching experience strongly preferred.

Additional Information
The Human Services Program resides in the College of Social Sciences and Humanities, serves approximately 200 undergraduate majors. The Human Services major is an academically rigorous program that prepares students for careers in social change. The mission of the Human Services program is to provide students with the theoretical and skill-based background necessary to practice as social professionals in the macro, mezzo, and micro arenas (individuals, communities and policies).

Founded in 1898, Northeastern University is a dynamic and highly selective urban research university in the center of Boston whose standing among research universities has increased rapidly in recent years. Grounded in its signature co-op program, Northeastern provides unprecedented global experiential learning opportunities. It receives the largest number of undergraduate applications of any private university in the United States.