COLLEGE OF SOCIAL WORK

Isaiah DeQuincey Newman Endowed Professorship in Peace and Social Justice

The University of South Carolina College of Social Work invites applications for the Isaiah DeQuincey Newman Endowed Professorship. This professorship provides the University of South Carolina and the citizens of South Carolina the opportunity to continue Dr. Newman's mission to promote the causes of peace and social justice.

The I. DeQuincey Newman Professorship was established in 1994 in remembrance of Reverend Newman, known throughout the state and nation as a champion of civil rights, social justice, and peaceful social change. He was a strong advocate of human services, particularly in behalf of low-income, minority populations. In 1983, he was elected to the South Carolina Senate and became the first African American to serve in that body since Reconstruction. In 1984, upon recommendation from the College of Social Work, he was awarded the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Humane Letters by the University of South Carolina.

The College of Social Work is a premier setting to advance the health and social well-being of vulnerable populations through transdisciplinary, community-engaged teaching, research, and service. Its academic offerings include BSW, MSW, and PhD programs. The University of South Carolina spans an eight campus, fully-accredited system, and is designated by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching as a "very high research activity" institution with "community engagement" distinction.

Candidates for the position will be expected to maintain a strong record of extramural funding for research on issues related to social justice. Transdisciplinary collaborations with faculty of the College of Social Work and other academic units are expected. Community engagement is expected as well.

The successful candidate must have a doctoral degree in social work or related field; a demonstrated record of transdisciplinary, community-engaged research and teaching in promoting the causes of social justice; and significant or promising accomplishments in obtaining extramural funding. Qualifications must be commensurate with the rank of associate professor or professor.

Salary: Highly competitive.

How to apply: Applicants should submit electronically a letter of application, curriculum vita, and three letters of reference to <http://cosw.sc.edu/facultysearch>. Inquiries about this position may be made to Dr. Terry Wolfer, Chair, Faculty Recruitment Committee at terry.wolfer@sc.edu or by phone at (803) 777-9486. The search committee will review applications immediately and continue until the position is filled.

The University of South Carolina is an affirmative action/equal opportunity institution.
Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.
