RESEARCH INTEREST

My research focuses on understanding the impact of psychosocial, sociocultural, and structural factors on health outcomes for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer (LGBTQ) individuals; specifically identifying the contexts that puts gay men of color at greater risk for HIV infection, developing intersectional measures of identity, and analyzing structural discrimination.

TEACHING INTEREST

Social work theory, human behavior and the social environment, research methods and statistics, HIV/AIDS policy, LGBTQ studies, organizational development, community practice, community-based participatory research, and health disparities.
